

SECTION 06 • A RECORD-KEEPING COMPANION

Keep the record.

A calm, dated log of shared costs, incidents, communications and handovers. Private memory support — written as things happen, not from memory later.

THIS LOG HELPS YOU

Hold key dates in one place

Track shared costs clearly

Note incidents as they happen

Log handovers and communications

Reduce the load of remembering

Stay organised, not adversarial

The dates, before they blur.

Stress makes dates slide together. Fill these in once, roughly if you must, and you will not have to reconstruct them under pressure later. Approximate is fine — note it as approximate.

01 Key milestones

● ONE DATE EACH

EVENT	DATE	NOTE
Date of separation
Date you moved out
Parenting agreement signed
Property settlement finalised
Divorce application lodged
Divorce finalised
First night in your own place
First kids' week at your place

02 Current arrangements

● UPDATE WHEN IT CHANGES

ITEM	DETAILS
Parenting arrangement
Child support status
Property situation
Your lawyer
Mediator / family dispute contact
Family court case number

PRIVATE MEMORY SUPPORT

This is a personal record to help you remember — not a legal statement and not evidence in itself. Ask your lawyer what counts as evidence, and how they would like anything important recorded.

PAGE 02 • THE CHRONOLOGICAL RECORD

One line per thing, as it happens.

A dated record is calmer than a memory. Write entries at or near the time. Mark the type with a letter, keep the note factual and brief, and leave the feelings off the page.

- C Cost — a shared expense
 ● I Incident — something that happened
 ● M Communication — a message or call
● H Handover — a changeover

[illegible]

USE WITH ATLAS

Atlas keeps this same record in the Records dashboard — add entries on your phone as they happen, then export a clean dated dossier whenever you need one. This sheet is the offline mirror for the days you would rather write than type.

Keep the money part clean.

Shared costs are where small disputes start. A running list — what it was, how much, who paid — keeps the conversation about the numbers, not the relationship.

01 Shared cost log

- KEEP THE RECEIPT REFERENCE

[illegible]

CLOSING — SECTION 06

A record removes the argument about what happened.

You are not building a case. You are reducing the mental load of remembering, and keeping shared costs fair and visible. Write it down as it happens, keep it factual, and let the page hold what your memory should not have to.

DATED

FACTUAL

VISIBLE

PRIVATE

Private memory support – not evidence. Prepared from your own records, recorded at or near the time of the events described. Atlas provides practical organisation only; this is a personal record, not legal advice. Ask your lawyer what counts as evidence before relying on it.