

Pack 05 · Tool 19

Rebuild goals.

Start feeling like yourself again. Quiet, deliberate forward movement, one ordinary week at a time.

In this workbook

- 02 Money
- 03 Health & parenting
- 04 Everyday life
- 05 Direction & next steps

For when life is less acute

It ends with a snapshot to come back to in three months, and three next steps with dates.

In the app: Goals → add your three next steps

Where things stand right now.

A low-resolution map, not a grade: what feels stable, what feels neglected, what quietly needs attention. Score it now, then again in three months.

Which area feels most stable right now?

Which creates the most stress or uncertainty?

If one area became twenty percent steadier over the next six months, which would improve life most overall?

Money, set up for the long run.

Not every problem needs solving now. Tick what's true, leave the rest blank, then pick one goal and its first step.

02

Money

Stability before growth

What would financial stability actually look like for you?

☐ Build an emergency buffer

☐ Understand spending clearly

☐ Create a long-term housing plan

☐ Other

☐ Reduce debt pressure

☐ Improve income stability

☐ Reduce money worry

My one goal

First step

By when

The two things everything else rests on.

Your health and the kids’ steadiness. Tick what’s true, then write one goal for each, with a first step you could take this week.

03

Health

What habits make you feel more functional?

☐ Sleep consistency

☐ Walking or movement

☐ Gym or fitness

☐ Better food structure

☐ Reduced alcohol

☐ Stress management

☐ Medical check-ups

☐ Other

04

Parenting

What helps the kids feel steadier?

☐ Better routines

☐ Less household chaos

☐ Better communication

☐ More predictable schedules

☐ More present time together

☐ Less conflict exposure

☐ Other

My one goal

First step

By when

The quieter rebuild.

These four often get neglected, and quietly decide how the rest of life feels. Mark what's true, skip what isn't.

05 Friendships

Which people make life feel calmer or healthier?

☐ Reconnect with old friends

☐ Healthier social rhythms

☐ Reduce isolation

☐ Join activities or community

☐ Less time with draining people

☐ Other

06 Home

What would make home feel calmer?

☐ Declutter

☐ Better routines

☐ Create personal space

☐ Improve organisation

☐ Stabilise housing

☐ Make it feel lighter

08 Work

What work situation would support a steadier life?

☐ Reduce burnout

☐ Income stability

☐ Work and life balance

☐ Career development

☐ Better boundaries

☐ More meaningful work

☐ Other

My one goal

Quiet direction, small steps.

A rough sense of what steadier looks like, plus the next three honest actions, is enough to keep moving.

09

Future relationships

Which relationship patterns do I not want to repeat?

What would a calmer relationship look like now?

When would I introduce a new partner to the kids, and what would need to be true first?

10

The next six months

Sketch it, roughly

If life were noticeably steadier six months from now, what would be different?

Rebuilding after separation is usually quieter than people expect.

Clearer weeks. Steadier money. Calmer handovers. Fewer decisions made in a hurry. It doesn't arrive all at once. It turns up in ordinary weeks.

- Grounded
- Deliberate
- Forward
- Yours again
